INVITATION

IRDE SEMINAR

Curriculum Change Across Europe: Revising frameworks before and after the covid

What are the main trends in curriculum making for general compulsory education across diverse contexts in Europe? What could be the short-term and long-term impact of covid pandemic on the aims and content of education? Join us to discuss the future of curriculum with the leading European experts. The following questions will be addressed: What is perceived as most problematic in actual curricular documents? Are there any efforts to address "curriculum overload" and trim the curriculum framework? Specifically, what has been dropped or shall be dropped from the various curricula? How does the covid19 pandemic change the school curriculum? Is the present situation a chance for change or a threat to fair access to balanced curriculum?

The discussion will be moderated by Dominik Dvořák and Daniel Pražák, Institute for Research and Development of Education, Faculty of Education, Charles University, Prague.
